

Get Ready For A Great Future

What makes one child successful and another a permanent struggler? What makes one child happier and healthier than another? The answer lies in our thoughts. How we think makes all the difference. And moral values and life skills play a major role in shaping our thinking. But we don't pay much attention to these critical skills. Most of us learn them through the trial and error method. Get Ready For A Great Future aims to correct this by creatively engaging children in matters important to their future and the future of humanity. It offers a structured, enlightening programme based on authors previous work, a value education framework entitled For A Great Future. This programme prompts children to process and analyze information from real-life situations and encourage them to become better thinkers and better human beings. It has been carefully designed to help children develop their own value systems. The aim is to encourage them to establish an emotional connect with the moral themes which will help them succeed in life. This book is aimed at 21st century children who are growing up amidst the screen culture where e-media is increasingly penetrating the protective walls of homes and schools.
